GODLY FATHERHOOD BY EXAMPLE

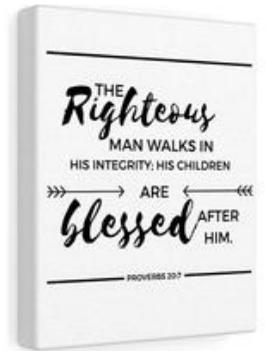

When my wife and I purchased our first home, our next door neighbor was an unexpected blessing. If you were working on a project, Vice would loan the tool you needed, and stop by to make sure you knew how to use it. When you went out of town, Vice would watch your house and make sure newspapers didn't pile up in the driveway.

When Vice interacted with his wife and daughters, he was always kind and compassionate. He lit up whenever he spoke about his family and was present for every school event. When my wife and I were expecting our first child, Vince shared a kind yet stern warning: "They grow up fast; spend time with your children so you don't have any regrets."

We no longer live next to Vince, but his actions of love still resonate deeply with me - a love that is patient, kind, protecting, trusting, hoping and preserving.

As we go about the daily duties of fatherhood and husbandry, it is important for us to remember as men that others are watching us. In dutifully demonstrating actions of love, we make our lives a living testimony of godly fatherhood in a world where many men need an example to follow.
